RACING SEASON TO CLOSE THIS WEEK.

Then the Regulars Will Go On to Washington, Where Excellent Sport Will Be Provided.

One week more of racing around New York and then the regulars will go to Washington, where they will find a course second to none of the metropolitan associations in appointment.

Since last spring the track proper has been entirely rebuilt, so that from being a deep, sandy course, over which a mile in 1.45 was a grand performance, it has been transformed into a hard, fast track which will permit of a mile in 1.40 or better. As a matter of fact there are now horses at Benning which have worked a mile in 1.40. The ugly bank of sand just above the clubhouse on the first turn has been beautified into a sodded terrace.

With the new steel grand stand and other fine appointments the Washington course is one of the most important on the circuit. It is hard to realize that only a few years ago it seemed impossible to continue racing at this point on account of lack of patronage. At the last meeting, even with the enlarged accommodations, the place was overcrowded.

Big Stakes Carded.

Secretary Crickmore has issued his stakes book and the races are unusually interesting. The best stakes at the meeting from a racing point of view, are the Washington Cup and the Maximum.

The Washington Cup race is run on Thanksgiving Day and the distance is two miles and a quarter. The Maximum, which derives its name from the fact that it is the longest race of the year, and, of course, the "maximum" distance, is run on Nov. 23, two days after the running of the cup. Both of these races are intensely interesting, not because of the quality of the entries, but on account of the distance.

During the meeting several steeplechase stakes will be run, and on other days there are the Columbia Handicap, the Dixie Stakes, for three-year-olds; the Grand Consolation, for two-year-olds; the Vestal, for three-year-old fillies; and the Benning Special. This latter stake has $10,000 added and the distance is one mile and a half. In the Washington Cup and the Maximum the added money is $10,000 in each event, which is a generous sum at this time of the year.

Will Be an Important Meeting.

The increase in stakes and purses and the renovation of the course will make the present meeting the most important and interesting ever held in Washington. The racing at Aqueduct this week will run along in the same old groove, a stake each day and enormously heavy entries.

As was predicted in this column the ruling of President Tom Rilly in the Aste case was reversed by the stewards, and Plater, as well as the other horses in Aste's string, will be permitted to race throughout the rest of the meeting. So, as was stated, President Rilly stands in the position of being the owner of a race track and having nothing to say concerning the happenings on it. He has the privilege of gathering up the gate receipts and paying the purses, and that is about his limit. If he sees crooked racing on his track and finds a loss of patronage the result he may storm and rave, but he is powerless. Everything is in the hands of the stewards. As they have not been particularly active this season there is not much chance that they will make any rulings to please President Rilly. Unfortunately there was a doubt as to whether there was any sharp practice in the reversal of form showed by Plater. It is said that Mr. Rilly did not pick out a better case which could be legitimately considered a form reversal so as to put it up to the stewards to see what they would do.

Rilly Must Be Commended.
The public approves Mr. Rilly's action because they believe he was in earnest and wanted to root out what he thought was a bad stable. He has shown that he wants honest racing at Aqueduct. It is to be hoped that every time Mr. Rilly sees what he believes to be a crooked race he will prod the stewards into action.

In the Plater case, however, there was present the element of doubt, and if the stewards had not acted on Wednesday's action they might have been doing a grave injustice to a possibly innocent man. One part of Mr. Aste's statement regarding Plater's race is a bit inconceivable. He says that on Wednesday the day Plater was beaten, he had a heavy bet down, but that on Friday he had only a small bet on straight and placed. Why should he bet the heavy bet down when track conditions were against Plater and only bet lightly when everything favored his horse?

RACING NOTES.

John E. Madden's horses, which raced so prominently on the Eastern tracks this season, will be shipped from Morris Park to Hamburg Race, where they will be quartered for the winter, during the current week.

Winter racing is now assured at Los Angeles during the next five years, for Manager J. W. Brooks, of the Racing Association, has signed a five-year lease of Agricultural Park, the Santa Anita track, where they will be in training during the fall and winter months, and will return here early in the spring. There are fourteen in the lot.

W. P. Burch, who is preparing his horses for the Washington meeting at the Benning track, writes in very eulogistic terms of the track as reconstructed. He states that "it is now just in comparison with any," and that "the only critics in the horse world who may have been deceived to get into the saddle and see the new track, will find it a little better than they expected."

With news from his home, London, Mr. Burch says he has been staying lately in London. It is not expected that he will return to the States until the middle of December, as he has been so busy with the racing season.

START AND FINISH OF DE WITT'S KICK FOR GOAL.

TWO GOAL KICKS FROM FIELD

WON THE GAME FOR TIGERS.

To Princetonians the name of DeWitt will live forever in their minds when football is mentioned. The big fellow who plays at right guard for the Tigers is well worthy of the prominence given him. All season he has shown that he is one of the greatest players of the year. In the game against Cornell on Saturday he proved it.

It is not saying too much to assert that without DeWitt Princeton could not have won her game against Cornell. His two goal kicks from the field was all the scoring his team did. Besides that he out-punted Brewster and made it possible for his team to advance the ball so far from the Jerseymen's goal as to prevent any possibility of the Ithacans scoring.

Now Princeton's team has set to work to prepare for its biggest game of the year—that against Yale, which will be played on Nov. 15. Despite the hard-fought game against Cornell, the eleven is in excellent shape. Few of the men incurred injuries and those who did sustained nothing so serious as to keep them out of the practice.

R. McClave received the most serious injury. His shoulder was slightly bruised, but he will be able to get in harness very shortly. Henry, it was thought, might be overtrained, but he is not. The other men will be put to hard work to-day and this afternoon will be devoted chiefly to trying out substitutes, upon whom Princeton feels will fall, in a great measure, victory or defeat in the Yale game. Never before was such good feeling evidenced between rooters for two rival teams than was seen here Saturday night. Cornell men sang Princeton songs and the Tigers responded with the "Hail Cornell!"

Avonia A. C. Ball To-Night.

The Avonia Athletic Club, a popular organization of the Ninth Ward, will hold its second annual ball at Webster Hall in East Eleventh street tonight. The affair promises to be most enjoyable and successful. President William Griffin and his pretty wife will lead the grand march, which will be started at 11 P. M. Prof. Cooper and his orchestra will furnish the music.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR JIM CORBETT.

Los Angeles Club Would Give Him $10,000 Purse for Bout with "Denver Ed" Martin.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—Match-maker Tom McCarthy, of the Crescent A. C. of this city, has offered a purse of $10,000 for a twenty-round bout between Jim Corbett and "Denver Ed" Martin, the colored heavy-weight champion of the world, the battle to be decided at his club on a date to be selected by the pugilists. Billy Madden, manager of Martin, has accepted the offer and states that he will let Corbett decide the way to split the purse.

There is not a chance of the two men ever meeting in the ring no matter how big a purse is offered. Corbett has said repeatedly that he will fight no one but Jim Jeffries, and has proved his assertion by declining the offer made him by his brother Harry, of the San Francisco A. C., to fight George Gardner for a big purse and a wide belt of $25,000.

YOUNG CORBETT-AUSTIN RICE BOUT CALLED OFF.

Pugilists Are Put Under Bond to Keep Peace and Battle Will Not Be Fought.

WATERBURY, Conn., Nov. 3.—Austin Rice, of New London, the boxer who is matched to meet Young Corbett on Thursday night, was before City Court today morning on a warrant issued by Clerk McMahon, Assistant Prosecuting-Attorney, alleging that he had engaged in a prize fight. Rice pleaded not guilty. The club officials were asked if it was not their intention to hold a prize fight, and all denied that the affair would be a prize fight, saying that it was to be a boxing exhibition for points only and would be within the law.

REIFF AND HENRY SUE FOR $40,000.

Case Against French Jockey Club Will Begin Next Week—Bob Rose Exonerated.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—The suits for damages brought by the two American jockeys, Johnnie Reiff and Milton Henry, against the French Jockey Club for depriving them of their licenses will be heard next Monday. The boys claim $40,000 damages.

The case, it is expected, will take up a week, as all the evidence collected by the Detective Department and which resulted in the ruling off of the boys is likely to be gone over.

Robert Rose, the American bookmaker who fell under the ban of the French police and who was ruled off the tracks, has been exonerated from any connection with the fraudulent transactions charged. Rose since the exposure has been anxious to leave France, but remained over that he might be vindicated of the charges against him. With that done now, he says he will sail for New York on the Kronprinz Wilhelm on Wednesday.

LITTLE HOPE FOR COLUMBIA'S ELEVEN IN ITS PRESENT WEAKENED CONDITION.

Poor Columbia!
 Its football warriors are not the aggressive, the idolized players they were just two weeks ago. It was not such a great surprise when the team went down to defeat before Princeton a week ago, but to fall victims to the poor team that represents the University of Pennsylvania was a sad blow. One more big game has the New York team got, and that is against Brown on Saturday on the Polo Grounds. In Columbia's present condition little or no hope can be expressed for them against the Rhode Island boys.

The list of Columbia's injured is long enough to make a colonel blush when making his reports of the casualties after a battle. The Columbians were used up badly by the Pennsylvanians. First Thorpe was so badly hurt that it is doubtful if he will play against Brown. Smith, the half-back, is suffering from all kinds of bruises; Capt. Weekes's injured ankle is none the better for the game against the Quakers; Goodman, the little quarter-back, is also injured and so is Wolff. All the other men are in bad shape, too, and Coach Morley will give them little more than theoretical practice for the next two days in preparation for the game against Brown.

(Special to The Evening World.)
 ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Cornell's eleven is almost a physical wreck as a result of the tough battle with the Tigers last Saturday. The contest was one in which slugging was frequent and rough play inda god in.

Brewster, Cornell's plucky quarter-back, was obliged to keep to his bed all of yesterday, and his injured leg has given him intense pain. Brewster, it is believed, was deliberately injured by the Princeton ends, who jumped on him early in the first half. He was not himself after this. And had he been so it is believed that he would have been able to hold his own with DeWitt, the big Princeton guard, in punting. Then later, as if he had not already suffered enough, a big Princeton tackle deliberately kicked him in the stomach.

Smith, the right tackle, is also a sufferer from a very severe muscle bruise, and it is doubtful if Capt. Warner will be able to muster more than one or two regulars at the practice this afternoon.
